The Amazing Spider Man is an American superhero film based on the Marvel Comics character Spider-Man, and is the third installment in the "Spider-Man" film series. The movie is directed by Marc Webb and produced by Avi Arad, Matt Tolmach and Laura Ziskin, with a screenplay by James Vanderbilt. It stars Andrew Garfield as Peter Parker / Spider-Man, Emma Stone as Gwen Stacy, Rhys Ifans as Curt Connors / Lizard and Denis Leary as Captain Stacy. In New York City a brilliant but socially awkward scientist named Dr. Curt Connors is researching a cure for a fatal disease that he himself has been infected with. During his work he discovers a serum that can cure him of the disease and becomes Lizard. He goes overseas to find more of the serum, only to have it stolen from him, and is captured by Oscorp employees, who inject him with a special drug so they can keep him as their test subject. While on the run from them he meets a waitress named Gwen Stacy who takes pity on him and helps hide him from those seeking his capture. However, after being smuggled into her apartment he discovers that the people she works for are not who they say they are, as some of them turn out to be criminals as well as assassins for hire. He also befriends her neighbor, Peter Parker, who becomes Spider-Man. The story takes place greatly focuses on the differences between Peter Parker and Curt Connors. It is revealed that Peter suffers from severe bullying by the other kids at school. One day he discovers that he has an amazing ability to shoot spider-webs out of his wrists. This discovery changes his life forever as he learns to use his superpowers for good, however one day he is forced outside into a backyard gym where many other students are pushed to do bench presses against their will by Coach Wilson. He watches as they are helplessly bench pressed against their will . While he is attempting to help them, he himself is pushed and almost killed. However it seems that Peter did not die and disappeared instead, and he wakes up back in his house where his Uncle Ben lies dying. A mysterious man appears in the distance claiming to have given Peter his new abilities, something Peter takes as a threat. His Uncle encourages him to use these new abilities to help others. Angry at the apparent source of his powers, Peter tells him off before they are attacked by small robots called "bots." After escaping their house is destroyed by a jet of water from the sewers that Spider-Man was hiding under. He then learns that his Uncle Ben has died in the attack. Peter quickly learns how to use his new amazing abilities. Peter's Uncle Ben appears to him in a dream. He tells Peter that Mary Jane Watson, his Aunt, would be visiting soon. He tells Peter that he must keep his distance from her for fear of exposing her secret knowledge of the wall-crawler's true identity. While trying to complete his school project on Spider-Man, Gwen meets Connors at a science fair and they begin a romance. While taking a walk in Central Park she sees a man who looks like Spider-Man save a little girl from being run over by a car.
